List of Material Provided

Acknowledging the use of germplasm accessions and breeding materials from the World Vegetable Center

The germplasm accessions and breeding materials made available to you come from the generous donation of our partners and collaborators from all around the world, the dedication of our breeders and scientists in continuously improving their traits and quality, and our donors that provide funding for our work in germplasm improvement and conservation of the world's largest collection of publicly-available vegetable germplasm.

For these reasons, our visibility and your feedback to the use of our materials are critical to ensure that your requests for materials from our genebank and breeding programs will be met, now and in the future. We thank you in advance for acknowledging our contribution in seed catalogues* (printed/on-line), as follows:-
